DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3 and 6-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Osamu, JP-2001-032189 (JPO Machine Translation used).

Osamu teaches a heat resistant paper, which is made or could be made by papermaking methods, including wet papermaking process, ¶-[0016]-[0017] of the Means and Detailed Description sections; the paper including from 10-100% heat resistant fibers, which are fibrillated and binder fibers with are fused to bond the fibrillated fibers by thermal compression bonding, see ¶-[0017]. Osamu in ¶-[0012] teaches some of the fibers that can be used, along or in combination, i.e., mixture of such fibers, polyimide, and polytetrafluoroethylene fibers, same as claimed. Also in ¶-[0028] Osamu shows the use of the mixture of polyimide, and polytetrafluoroethylene fibers. It seems that the cited reference teaches all the limitations of the above claims or at least the minor modifications to obtain the claimed invention would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
 2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
 3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
 4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
6. Claims 4-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Osamu, cited above, in view of Furukawa et al. JP 2003-096698 or Tomioka et al., US patent No. 5,463,016. Osamu teaches a composite papyraceous material including polyimide, and polytetrafluoroethylene fibers, see above, but he fails to teach the specific fibers as claimed in claims 4-5. However, Tomioka et al. and Furukawa et al. teach polyimide fibers having the same chemical structure as claimed in the above claims, and having excellent moldability, mechanical properties and heat resistance, see abstracts. Therefore, using the polyimide fibers suggested by Furukawa et al. or Tomioka et al. as the polyimide fibers suggested by Osamu would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art in order to take the advantages indicated above.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure in the art of "Papers comprising organic fibers."
